CANADA'S WHITE ELEPHANT.

As the date approaches on which Riel is to expiate his treason, the probabilities as to whether the extreme penalty of the law will be enforced is being vigorously discussed. Riel himself is quite confident that he will not be hanged. While it is true that there is no substantial ground upon which the Government could advise the Governor-General to interfere, it is looked upon as certain that the sentence of the court will not be carried out. In the first place an appeal is to be taken to the Privy Council on legal grounds, and the delay which will be secured in this way will greatly strengthen Riel's chances of stepping out from the shadow of the scaffold. But even if the appeal were not allowed and there were no legal technicalities to be argued, it is exceedingly unlikely that the sentence of death would be inflicted. The jury recommended Riel to mercy, on what grounds they did not say, but it was either because they thought he was not altogether right in his mind or else that there was some justification for the attitude the half-breeds assumed. Riel has made his peace with the Catholic Church. Race and religion are two strong factors which are being made the most of in securing a commutation of his sentence at the hands of the government. The matter is probably all settled by this time.

Mr. Stead could hardly avoid getting into trouble after the publication of the "Maiden Tribute" articles in his Pall Mall Gazette. He has repeatedly quoted Mr. Gladstone's saying, "Judgment without action is mere froth," and he has labored most earnestly to secure the passage of the criminal law amendment bill, and he has worked up a mighty public sentiment, shared by the dignitaries of the churches and leading moralists, to force parliament to action. The peers opened upon him and the St. James Gazette especially charged him with conspiring with noted procuresses to produce samples of the corruption whose enormities he wished to bring before the public gaze. The arrest of Mrs. Jarrett and the charge of complicity against Mr. Stead and the Salvationist, will have the effect of focusing the whole business and bringing out the truth or falsity of the charges detailed in the Pall Mall Gazette. The London press has brought its influence to bear, not against the evil, but against Mr. Stead, and they have exhausted the terminology of invective in their endeavors to vilify him. Mr. Stead has the women of England to back him, and the church authorities and indignant masses, and it will be strange if he does not make the sword of his adversaries turn its edge backward upon themselves.

Since the Kremsier interview between the Czar Alexander and Francis Joseph, of Austria, it has been cabled that Alexander is about to promulgate a constitution for Russia. After the assassination of his father, a few years ago, Alexander talked about constitutional government, and Gen. Melikoff was allowed to make some investigations looking to the political emancipation of the moujike, or peasantry, and the expansion of their system of zemstvos, or provincial assemblies; but the nobility worked against the project and against all schemes looking to the restoration of the old Russian national assembly, and the Czar dropped the notion of Melikoff. At his coronation at Moscow the Czar intimated that he would resume the consideration of the parliamentary scheme, but since then he has gained an apparent mastery over nihilism and no parliamentary signs have appeared. The nihilists last winter threatened him with assassination if he did not change his tactics, and he is now talking parliament once more. If Alexander means business, he, of course, must make up his mind to abdicate his autocracy and put the brakes upon the corrupt bureaucracy which flourishes in his realm.

Soon a Canadian buffalo robe will be a thing of the past. The worst fears regarding the extinction of the American bison have been realized and in a year or two this "noble animal of the plains" will rank with the ichthyosaurus and the dodo. A report from the Northwest says that this season's shipments of robes from Wolf Point, Poplar River and Berthold—a few years ago sources of immense supply—consisted of one bale, in which were three and a half full robes, two splits and four calf skins. At Winnipeg there may be 1,000 robes in store, held over from last season, and they represent Canada's total.

The United States public debt statement for Sept. 1 shows a reduction of $2,879,052, against $8,662,789 for the month of August. The net cash in the treasury is $49,716,572, as compared with $44,052,927 Aug. 1. The total cash available for the reduction of the public debt is $256,763,295, against $260,230,397 a month ago. Gold certificates have increased from $123,289,000 Aug. 1 to $123,885,490, and silver certificates have decreased from $98,872,106 to $96,089,296.

Russia is disposed to get even with Prussia in the expelling business, and a lot of King William's subjects are incontinently bounced from the city of Warsaw. However, as Prussia is the more desirable country to live in, the advantage is still with the Germans.

European medical men predict that Spanish fruit, dried and otherwise, exported this season, will surely convey cholera germs wherever it goes.

ANOTHER MURDERER

Charged with the Murder of Robert Baird, near Golden City, B. C.

St. Vincent, Aug. 31.—At an early hour this morning Constable Kruse, assisted by Chief Murray of Winnipeg, and Chief Sturdy of Emerson, arrested in the Canada hotel a man named Ed Kelly, alias "Bulldog," on a charge of murder. Last December Robert Baird of Missoula, Montana, was in possession of some $7,000 in money, on his way from Montana to some place not definitely ascertained yet in British Columbia. He was met on on the Canadian side by a man whose description Kelly answered, and murdered and robbed of the money. The murderer has succeeded in eluding the detectives ever since. Chief Murray came down from Winnipeg last night and soon traced his man to the Canada hotel in this village, where he arrested him. Officer Krouse burst the door of his bed-room in and covered him with a revolver. The prisoner made an effort to get his revolver, which he had under his pillow, but had no time, as the constable's pistol stared him in the face. He was taken to the Hallock jail this morning, where he will be retained until the necessary papers are procured to bring him back to Canada for prosecution. Kelly is about twenty-five years old, and has the appearance of being a nervy man. The murder and robbery caused not a little sensation at the time they were committed, last December. The most vigilant search was made for the criminal for weeks subsequent to the crime, but he remained unfound and undetected, and the affair was soon nearly forgotten. Baird was on his way to purchase cattle when killed.

PARTICULARS OF THE MURDER.

The murder was committed last December a few miles south of Golden City in this province. The victim was shot in cold blood for his money. He had been on a collecting tour through the mountains and had on his person a considerable sum. The murdered man's packer, Harry, was badly wounded in attempting to save his employer. He was also left for dead, but revived sufficiently to ride to a railway camp, and give the news of the foul murder. Armed parties were organized, and together with the mounted police, the country was scoured in every direction, but no trace of the assassin was found. He, of course, secured all poor Baird's money and then it was an easy matter for him to get out of the country. It was learned by the police that the murderer was supposed to be one Kelly, a character so hardened to everything human that he was given the title of "Bull Dog" in the mountains.

HIS CAPTURE.

The Winnipeg Free Press of the 1st gives the following regarding the arrest: "Since his murder his whereabout remained a mystery until last Thursday, when he turned up at no other place than Prairie Park. Like everybody else he was enjoying the races and bucked the wheel and bought pools to his heart's content. His hardened countenance, however, gave him away and the police spotted him as a suspicious character. A mounted policeman named Kerr, who is in the city on a holiday trip, came across him at the park and immediately recognized the famous "Bull-Dog" the terror of the mountains. While conversing with him Kelly remarked that it was reported that the police "were on to him" for murdering a man in the Rockies. He denied all knowledge of the affair, and expressed his desire to see Major Steele in order that he might vindicate his character. Kerr remarked that Steele was in the city and he would have no difficulty in seeing him, and the twain boarded the train for the city with that object in view. When the train was nearing the city, however, Kelly excused himself for a moment and quietly dropped off and took leg-bail down the Southwestern track. Kerr reported the matter to Sergt. McRae, of the city police force, and that functionary took the case in hand, with the result narrated in the dispatch above. The Sergeant, along with Chief Murray, hunted the murderer down in a very clever manner, and richly deserve the $1000 reward offered by the firm for whom Baird was traveling. It is probable that after his extradition from Minnesota to Winnipeg, where he will undergo a preliminary trial, the murderer will be brought to this province to stand his trial for the heinous crime with which he is charged. The Attorney-General will doubtless take cognizance of the case and act accordingly.

The Eliza Armstrong Abduction.

London society generally and especially the clubs are engrossed with the probable revelations of the coming trial of Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette and others, in connection with the Eliza Armstrong abduction. Stead has decided to conduct his own defense as his counsel is unavoidable absent. The greatest curiosity is manifested as to whether or not he will summon for the defense the Archbishop of Canterbury, Cardinal Manning, or any other member of the Mansion House Committee. Startling disclosures are expected, though the prosecution announce that it will confine testimony simply to the abduction of the girl Armstrong. The streets are exceptionally free from obscene literature and the Gazette has almost dropped its agitation. Contributions to Stead's secret fund continue to pour in, however. It is now admitted that there are many weak points in the crown's case. Stead is confident of victory, but it is regarded as almost certain that he will be committed by the magistrate. People who know him say he will refuse to give bail, unless the same privilege is accorded to other persons indicted. As this will hardly be allowed, it is exceedingly likely that before Stead is a week older he may share the recent experience of Edmund Yates. One consequence of making Stead a martyr would probably be his return to parliament by more than one constituency at the approaching election.

Trying to Save Riel's Life.

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—Riel's appeal case came up before the Court of Queen's Bench this morning. The prisoner's counsel objected to the papers, purporting to be the records of the case, brought from Regina. These records were shown to have no seal and were not properly certified. Counsel contended that the original record of the Court at Regina and the prisoner himself should be present before the appeal could be tried, and the Judges decided that this must be done before the appeal was argued. Friday next was set for the trial of the case.

British Outcasts for Canada.

[Winnipeg Free Press.]

The Canadian press, with a unanimity which is not surprising under the circumstances, is protesting against the proposal of certain alleged English philanthropists to send us the females whom they intend "reforming" in London and elsewhere in the Old Country. We most heartily echo the words of the London Advertiser that we have no desire to see Canada turned into an ostensible reformatory for the surplus demired population of Great Britain. If we could be certain that the women sent out would at once reform and live honestly ever after, we might probably think we were under some obligations to give that class of people a chance—though we certainly should not consider them even then, such a very desirable acquisition to our population. As a matter of fact, however, the number who would reform would be very small. It could not be otherwise. How many would have an opportunity to make an honest living? How many would be received into our people's houses and given employment when their antecedents were known? How many would be content with the monotony of steady labor—the contempt which they would often meet from their fellow-employees — the suspicion with which they would be watched by their employers? Of all the fallen women that might be sent out from England to be reformed in the United States and Canada, we think we are giving a fair estimate when we say that 5 per cent might reform and 95 five per cent would go to swell the already too-abundant criminal population of our country.

There is an idea altogether too prevalent in Great Britain, that the colonies are just the place to which all the loose fish of old country society should be exported. A great amount of money is contributed and expended for the purpose of gathering up the street arabs, the poor and the destitute, and the criminal, giving them a good bath and a suit of clean clothes, and sending them off to the colonies. It is most amusing to note at times the patronizing tone adopted by the promoters of these emigration schemes, who speak as though they were conferring a great favor on the colonies, and to note also the extreme anxiety they express that we should take good care of their outcasts—even threatening us that unless we are very good to them we need not expect to get any more. In view of the fact that emigrants of this class contribute a large portion of the inmates of our jails, reformatories and penitentiaries, we cannot look on them as an unmixed blessing. We beg leave therefore, to enter our protest and to ask the people of Great Britain to reform their criminals at home and not send them out for us to take care of. We are supporting too many of that class in our prisons now. It is all well enough that Old World people should desire to be rid of their poor and destitute, their incompetent and incorrigible. It is in their interest to export them, and it is a profitable investment for individuals and for governments to subscribe money for the purpose of sending them out of the country. But we are far from being anxious to have such garbage dumped on our territory.

Royal Family Gossip.

A London dispatch of the 7th inst. states that it is a growing opinion that the Prince of Wales will soon occupy Buckingham palace, resigning Marlborough house to his son and heir. Trades people will certainly welcome a change, as the Prince's occupation of Buckingham palace, and Prince Albert Victor's setting up of an independent town establishment at Marlborough house, would be likely to give the social season in town an unusual impetus. By many people, however, the Queen's giving up of a royal palace, even of one she does not occupy, will be looked upon as little less than abdication of the crown.

There is no little jealousy among the royal Princesses, arising from the Queen's gift to Princess Beatrice of her unique and valuable collection of lace. The sisters of Beatrice, Louise and Helena, feel very much slighted, not so much on account of any affectionate associations of the gift as because of its enormous money value. They had long expected it to be divided between them.

Angell, the Queen's favorite painter, is coming from Vienna to Windsor, at the Queen's command, to paint Princess Beatrice and Battenberg. He will also receive final sittings for the Queen's state portrait. Caton Woodville, by royal command, is painting gorgeous pictures of the recent royal wedding. All the dresses used and the portraits of those present on that occasion are placed at his disposal for that purpose. The picture will probably be placed on exhibition at the royal academy in February.

A Serious Strike.

London, Sept. 2.—Five thousand workmen employed in Sir William George Armstrong's machine and gun works at Elswick, near Newcastle, struck work to-day, because their employer refused to dismiss two managers who had made themselves obnoxious to the employees.

The transcontinental lines have made a reduction of one cent a pound on hops from the Pacific coast to eastern points. The old rate was three cents. The new order went into effect on the 2d inst.

The Oregon short line has begun the shipment of 27,000 head of cattle from Ontario, Or. Fourteen hundred cars and sixty days will be required to complete the transportation. Most of the cattle go to Chicago.

The C.P.R. is completing surveys for the erection of an iron bridge 3,300 feet long over the St. Lawrence, between Lachine and Caughnawaga, to connect with the Short Line to the Atlantic coast. The cost is estimated at $2,500,000.

Martin Archibald, a wealthy farmer of Huntington, broke into the house of Mrs. Adams and attempted to ravish her. Her son, arrived on the scene, struck him with an axe, and he released his hold, when Mrs. Adams seized the axe and attacking Archibald almost severed his head from his body.

Reports from the Lake Superior section of the Canadian Pacific Railway state that work is being pushed in every direction. The grade is almost ballasted and in splendid condition. Turn tables and round houses are being constructed from Nemogosenda westwards.

From Halifax it is reported on good authority that Judge Thomson has decided to resign his seat on the Supreme Court bench of Nova Scotia, to accept the portfolio of Minister of Justice in the Dominion cabinet. The Halifax Chronicle says that McLeane, M.P., for Antigonish, will be appointed to the vacant judgeship in that county, and that Judge Thomson will run in the constituency for the cabinet position.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

IT is understood the Premier will remain at Riviere du Loup until the end of September, if the weather does not keep too cold.

MEDICAL experts officially report to the Boston authorities that the drinking water of the city is not fit for hogs to drink.

HENRY WARD BEECHER significantly remarks: "I have been preaching over fifty years. My next call and settlement will probably be in Greenwood."

THE Canadian Pacific will announce in a few days that they propose going into the telegraph business in opposition to the Great Northwestern. MR. VAN HORNE has closed contracts with American connections.

THE rumor is current at Quebec of a rather startling and sensational crime committed in one of the government offices. The Attorney-General is reported to be investigating the matter.

DESPITE denials from the Swedish court at Stockholm there are persistent reports at Copenhagen that a marriage is being arranged between PRINCE OSCAR of Sweden and PRINCESS LOUISE, the eldest daughter of the PRINCE OF WALES.

IRISH agricultural statistics show that there are 5,000,000 acres of land under crops in Ireland, an increase of 81,000 over the acreage of 1884; that there are 10,250,000 acres of grass land, a decrease of 200,000 acres, and that bog, barren and mountain land has increased 27,000 acres.

THE Prussian government has ordered all Russian and Austrian Poles to quit Dantzig before October. Many old established merchants and tradesmen come under this order. The decree exempts settlers previous to 1843, temporary sojourners, and those who have served in the German army.

MINNEAPOLIS is the foremost milling city in the world. Last year the output of the several mills in the flour city amounted to over six million bushels, one-third of which was exported to Europe. Its prosperity is due chiefly to its unrivalled water power, formed by the Falls of St. Anthony, and the vast expanse of fertile prairie which extends for a thousand miles to the westward, and is rivalled only by that of the Canadian Northwest.

THE Germans have no doubt made a ten strike at Zanzibar. The ironclad parade in front of the palace of the sultan, Seyid Bargash, has doubtless weakened the faith of the latter in England's protection power, and England's opportunity to grasp the prize has gone. Under the late Lord Beaconsfield, this practical surrender of English interests would hardly have occurred. Seyid appealed to England, but she heeded him not. Zanzibar, ripe to fall into England's hands, will become subject to a German protectorate.

THE part Canada will take in the Colonial exhibition will be a credit to the province if SIR CHARLES TUPPER has his way. The High Commissioner is working most laboriously to make the Canadian department a success, and it is to be hoped that the general public will not allow the stupid political attacks that are made upon him to frustrate his efforts in that direction. Our previous displays at the various great shows have been very creditable to us; but next year we can, if we will, eclipse all our previous attempts, because our resources are so much greater than they ever were before.

IN THEIR indignation at RIEL's sentence some of the French Canadians are barking up the wrong tree, so to say. That awful personage Judge RICHARDSON, whose "brutality, ignorance, &c., &c.," were not discovered until RIEL had been sentenced, was not an "invention" of the MACKENZIE government. He had been four or five years in the Department of Justice, a confidential adviser of SIR JOHN MACDONALD, and the MACKENZIE government's relations with him were, as it happened, of less intimate nature. But RIEL is not the first, though perhaps the greatest, criminal with whom Judge RICHARDSON has dealt; how is it these guardians of the Bench's honor have been so silent up to the present time? The howl is a meaningless and improper one, and French newspapers would do themselves greater credit by checking the misplaced enthusiasm of their countrymen than by pandering to it.

THE MOUNTED POLICE.

In referring to the Farwell embroligo the Government street organ of the James Bay quartette stated that the mounted police were largely responsible for the recent outbreak in the Northwest. This is the first occasion, so far as our knowledge goes, that these men have been blamed, and it remained for the Colonist alone to make the charge. Those who have any knowledge of Northwest affairs will cheerfully bear testimony to the valuable service the mounted police rendered that country, in suppressing lawlessness, horse thieving raids from the United States, suppressing illicit liquor traffic and affording general protection to life and property. While the C. P. R. was being constructed over the great plains, it is not on record, where men were incapacited from work in consequence of over indulgence in intoxicants. It is quite true that tourists, and those desiring liquor for medicinal purposes, were granted permits to import quantities of not more than five gallons. When thousands of men were employed in railway construction drunkeness was practically unknown. Then so far as the settlers in the turbulent districts were concerned the police had nothing whatever to do with them, and in no case did they unduly interfere with their avocations, so long as they kept within the territorial and federal laws.

It appears that with the increase of immigration and all the concomitants of modern civilization, the determination to set the authority of the police at defiance increased. From the west as well as from the east people flocked into the country; some of these were not actuated by a desire to make a living in a legitimate, honest way; they determined to carry on their callings irrespective of either federal or provincial authority. The harvest season they knew to be a short one, and the determination to "make hay while the sun shone" preoccupied every other consideration. The officers of the force had their attention directed to the uprising in a remote part of the country from the railway belt. A few men were left at intervals in the hope of overawing the erratic sprits that were engrossed in the determination to deal out vile, poisonous liquor at such profits as made those who were paupers a short time previously persons of affluence. They unquestionably succeeded in rendering nugatory the efforts of the police, so that crime and lawlessness now holds high carnival there.

A change, however will now be speedily brought about. Not only will the disturbing elements disappear, for with the completion of the railway the large army of men now employed there will be discharged, but an entirely new departure is to take place in the commanding officers. THE TIMES has already announced that MAJOR STEELE, late inspector, has been promoted to the position of Superintendent. He is an officer of undoubted ability; has been in the service since its organization, in 1874, and is recognized as one of the best men in the force. He has been a little over ten years rising to his present rank, than which no man in the force is better, and few, if any, as well qualified to hold, while he has seen dozens of incompetents passed into the force over his head, or promoted without merit during that time. His present promotion, is, no doubt, on account of his connection with the late Alberta field force, but this is his last claim. He is personally acquainted with every part of police duty, has seen service in every post of importance in the Northwest; has been uniformly successful in whatever he attempted, and has commanded the respect of his men and the general public in a greater degree than any other police officer, unless COL. MACLEOD or MAJOR WALSH. His slow promotion can only be accounted for on the ground that he had no friends to push his cause at Ottawa, and consequently had to take a back seat, while dudes and incompetents ran the force into the ground. MAJOR STEEL's case is not a solitary one, except in the fact that he stayed by it and succeeded when others gave up and left the force in disgust. With small pay and smaller chance of promotion, what wonder that men of ambition and energy left the force, or, remaining in it, gave up both and were content to merely exist. COL. IRVINE might as well be asked to make bricks without straw as to achieve distinction with a force out of which all energy had been squeezed, in the double attempt to run it at small expense and at the same time to furnish soft places for a set of good-for-nothings. His great mistake was to remain commissioner when the force was put upon such a degraded footing, and perhaps right here we find the real reason, long a mystery, why COL. MACLEOD and MAJOR WALSH are not now members of the force.

THE letter of "Apropos" referred to in this morning's Colonist as appearing in its issue of to-day, is very conspicuous by its entire absence from our contemporary's columns. The real explanation for such an omission is assigned to the fact that at the ministerial caucus held in the sanctum of the government organ last evening, the letter of "Apropos," having been read and discussed, it was deemed prudent at the present juncture of affairs to withhold its publication. The coterie decided wisely, for when the facts of the whole matter are made public it will become apparent that the difficulty which has given rise to the present unpleasantness between the officials was not an entirely one-sided affair, and that rash impetuosity on the part of over zealous officials was the cause of the whole trouble.

IT is understood that Secretary Bayard will recommend in his annual report the creation of four inspectors of consulates at a salary of $4,000, with allowances for travelling expense.

GREAT DEFEATS.

Many great battles have been lost by not keeping trace of the enemy. In the German official report 1866, we find that 400,000 men fought in the battle of Koniggratz, and it is stated that the outposts of the two armies faced each other within distance of four and a half miles without either arm suspecting the near and concentrated presence of the other. CLERY has an excellent chapter on this head, though one would prefer different division and definition of these duties. MACDONALD, on the Katzbach, trusting to reports that BLUCHER was in retreat, and taking no precautions to verify them with his cavalry, was surprised on his march, and his defeat became such a rout that he had to beg the Emperor to come in person to restore matters. In 1870 MACMAHON's right flank was left unscreened. The result was that although he had two divisions of cavalry in the reserve, his Fifth corps was surprised and routed at Beaumont. In tactics the same rule holds good, for "at Waterloo NAPOLEON neglected to reconnoitre toward WAVRE, and became aware too late of the advance of the Prussians." The necessity of constant touch is exemplified by the fact that after the battle of Austerlitz MURAT's cavalry mistook the line of retreat of the allied army, and so the whole French army pursued on the wrong road. To obtain the touch of the enemy and keep it is all important in enabling reconnoitres to find out much about him. This is best done by small bodies, having great mobility, under sharp officers or non-commissioned officers. VON SCHMIDT says: "The more the enemy sees himself surrounded by 'points' and patrols only which avoid him, but constantly return again, and not by tangible bodies, the more certainly will every attempt he may make to break through be frustrated and the less will he be able to avoid perpetual observation and obtain any information for himself." Touching the distance in front of an army that the screen should maintain and the extent of front be covered, CLERY gives some useful examples: "In the advance of the First and Second German armies from the Saar to the Moselle, in 1870, the Cavalry of the Second army during the first day's march was pushed forward to points varying from fifteen to twenty miles in advance of the general front. Ten regiments were employed and they reconnoitered along a line extending from Point-a-Chansey on the right to Pfalzbourg on the left, about sixty miles. This gave one regiment to about every six miles of front to be reconnoitred."—Army and Navy Quarterly.

THE LATEST SCANDAL.

The cable message of the last scandal, which is doubtless stirring Dublin to its depths, and which will create an almost equal tumult in the veins of London, where the parties were in high fashion, makes the usual mistake in giving the lady's name as "the HON. MISS CLARETHORNE, daughter of LORD CLARETHORNE." The name of the fair fugitive is the HON. FLORENCE BINGHAM, second daughter of the late and sister of the present LORD CLAREMORRIS, who was state steward to the DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH when Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. She is very pretty and very petite, and from the advantages of her feather weight, celebrated as a horsewomah even in Galway, which, like Argos of the old, is noted for its "famous steeds and lovely women." The ladies of the BINGHAM family in Ireland, whose head, the EARL of LUCAN, gave the order for the charge of the Light Brigade, like the Pagets of England, have never realized the very severe conditions imposed by CÆSAR on his wife. The husband from whom she has fled, JOHN POLLOK, of Lismany, is of Scotch stock of not more than some fifty years' settlement, is the owner of very large landed estates and is a master of hounds. The whole lot is horsey. JOHN BLAKENEY, of Abbert, one of the horse-whipped "hot-blooded gallants," to borrow a phrase from the lovely LANGTRY, is fifty-eight years old and is now enjoying his second term of connubial bliss. The fair defaulter is only twenty-four. Scandals similar to those which in English society are falling thick as leave in Vallambrosa preceded the French Revolution.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

British dispatches announce that amongst the minor issues of the compaign will be the question of woman suffrage. Since LADY RANDOLPH CHURCHILL showed her sex what can be done in electioneering for another, the members of the different associations which advocate the rights of women are anxious to do a little electioneering on their own account. Among the most recent converts to the ladies' cause is SIR MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH, who informed a deputation from the Bristol and Clifton Woman's Suffrage Association that he has so far modified his views on the subject that the deputation brought before him, that he could now vote for the measure which a few months ago he was anxious to oppose. It is possible that Mr. BERESFORD HOPE may say that SIR MICHAEL's conversion is too sudden and is directly connected with the fact that he intends running for the western division of Bristol for the new parliament; but the genial leader of the Commons says that he is at length convinced of the injustice of depriving an educated and intelligent woman of a vote. And this being so, his conversion may be considered the prelude, if not the pledge, of that of, the rank and file of the party, and it may be counted that the Conservatives are prepared to bestow the suffrage upon single women and widows who are possessed of the necessary property qualification.

ROBUST HEALTH

Is not always enjoyed by those who seem to possess it. The taint of corrupted blood may be secretly undermining the constitution. In time, the poison will certainly show its effects, and with all the more virulence the longer it has been allowed to permeate the system. Each pimple, sty, boil, skin disorder and sense of unnatural lassitude, or languor, is one of Nature's warnings of the consequences of neglect.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only remedy that can be relied upon, in all cases, to eradicate the taint of hereditary disease and the special corruptions of the blood. It is the only alterative that is sufficiently powerful to thoroughly cleanse the system of Scrofulous and Mercurial impurities and the pollution of Contagious Diseases. It also neutralizes the poisons left by Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, and enables rapid recuperation from the enfeeblement and debility caused by these diseases.

Myriads of Cures

Achieved by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, in the past forty years, are attested, and there is no blood disease, at all possible of cure, that will not yield to it. Whatever the ailments of this class, and wherever found, from the scurvy of the Arctic circle to the "veldt-sores" of South Africa, this remedy has afforded health to the sufferers by whom it was employed. Druggists everywhere can cite numerous cases, within their personal knowledge, of remarkable cures wrought by it, where all other treatment had been unavailing. People will do well to

Trust Nothing Else

than AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Numerous crude mixtures are offered to the public as "blood purifiers," which only allure the patient with the pretense of many cheap doses, and with which it is folly to experiment while disease is steadily becoming more deep-seated and difficult of cure. Some of these mixtures do much lasting harm. Bear in mind that the only medicine that can radically purify the vitiated blood is

Two Turtles Trade Shells.

[Live Oak (Fla.) Correspondence.]

"I had a soft-shell turtle once," said the major, "that could beat any turtle on a trade I ever saw. Where I lived the pond on my place was a very small one, and in summer time got pretty low, especially if the season was a dry one. The summer was very dry in 1871, and Judas, which was the name of my turtle, and he was a little fellow—wouldn't weigh over eight pounds—had a bad time of it. The fleas stung him so badly that he was in a fever most all the time. One day I was walking down by the pond when I noticed him and a big turtle talking very earnestly together. I stopped behind a tree so that they couldn't see me, and watched the fun. Judas was trying to get the land turtle to trade shells with him. They argued a long time, and I was afraid Judas wasn't going to make it. Presently a bright idea seemed to strike him. He whispered to old hardshell, the latter nodded yes, and then Judas went into the pond. When he came out he had a young gosling that had got killed somehow, and he had stored it away for his own eating. He laid it down, and I knew the trade was made. It was the funniest sight I ever saw when they began to shuck. It was just like two old fellows trying to swap overcoats, only a tighter fit. When they changed suits and got on their new clothes, I couldn't hold out any longer. I burst out laughing, and then they saw me. It made Judas so mad he put for the woods, and I have never seen him since."

"The biggest turkle I ever seed," said the old cracker, "was down at Smyrny, in '56. Me and my pardner cotched hit. Hit weighed 8:6 pounds and 4 ounces. We had to let hit go, though; kase thar wa'n't any house within ten miles."

"How could you be so exact about the weight then?" inquired the professor.

"Kase we had jist cotched one of them big red-fish, and we used hits scales," was the sarcastic response.

The Fish Industry.

[Philadelphia Press.]

There are many economists in England who maintain that the haphazard and improvident methods of fishing are exhausting the fish supply of that country as surely as the mining is exhausting the supply of coal. The supply of many kinds of fish is rapidly diminishing, and the only way to check the waste is by systematic study of the conditions which regulate the supply. It is undoubtedly true that "the world could not be fed if men sought their food on land with as little forethought and system as fishermen cast their nets into the sea." To what extent these facts, which are causing considerable discussion in England, apply to the United States we are not prepared to say. The excellent work of many years of our fish commission exonerates our government from the accusation of total neglect of this important industry. Several states have fish commissions, and, together with the national government, have accomplished much useful work in the artificial breeding of cod fish, shad, oysters, etc. Indeed, the production of fish all over the United States has undoubtedly been largely increased by scientific research. It is not improbable that the annual fish product at present in the United States is equivalent to from 4,500,000 to 5,000,000 sheep. With the increasing demand for food, and with abundant evidence from other countries of the result of neglect, we should rather increase than relax our efforts to understand more about the food, habits, spawning and propagation of our fish, both in rivers, lakes and sea, that the harvest may not grow less as the demand becomes more urgent.

The Tendency to Story Telling.

[Boston Herald.]

Modern literature tends most of all to story-telling, which is the more homely name for the writing of novels. As it is the most popular literature of the day, it gives to an author the widest reading and the most promiscuous fame. There are the easiest opportunities in it for pecuniary prizes. Men and women write both for fame and for money. Few of them expect to attain the highest fame, and the instances in which there is aspiration for it are perhaps still fewer. Nearly all are seeking money in authorship. If it is not greatly needed, or if the money-getting spirit is not prominent, still money returns are a certificate of success.

Money is more likely to come from novels than from any other kind of composition. Poetry proverbially does not pay. Verse writing is even easier than story-telling, because to string rhymes often requires next to no effort. But where one writer succeeds in poetry in obtaining even an identity with readers in a limited circle, twenty obtain some kind of reputation as novelists. A historian goes to his work after long preparation, in which is involved abundant labor. An essayist, a scientist or a philosopher seldom engages in authorship except from innate interest in specialties of thought or investigation, and is more often impelled by devotion to a theme than by the desire for applause or gain.

The Tramps Mistake.

[Hartford Post.]

In these days when santiary science is scattered broadcast over the land, it is not strange that the wayfaring man should be thoroughly posted. An unusually ragged and suave tramp applied at the back door of a Hartford mansion for a glass of water. The lady of the house passed him a glass with her own hand, when he interposed. "Excuse me, madam, but has this water been boiled previous to its being cooled with ice?" "Boiled? No. It's good enough for you, though." "I beg to differ, madam. Medical authorities inform us that water must be boiled in order to kill the germs of disease that lurk therein. Beg pardon, ma'am; but would you lend me the last number of Sanitary Science. I will remain here until the water is boiled." "My spirit boils now, you impudent ——." The tramp saw his mistake and picked up the thread of his journey.

Didn't Want to Intrude.

[Texas Siftings.]

Some people when they are tight are very considerate. Gus de Smith, being under the influence of a dinner party, called at the residence of Col. McSpillkins, on Austin avenue.

"Ish Col. McSpillkinsh in? Wansh ter shee him on 'portant biznish."

"Yes, sah," responded the dusky menial.

"Sho heesh in, is he? Well, ef heesh in never mind disturbin' him on my account. I'll call again some day when heesh out."

"Magnalomania."

[Chicago Tribune.]

Riel's form of insanity is classed by one medical expert as "magnalomania." If it were not for medical experts this world would be a dull place. Since the death of Artemus Ward's kangaroo they are, by all odds, the most "amoosin'" things in existence. They are so earnest, too, with their theories and their oroide classical nomenclature.

Reproducing Infusoria.

Gruber, in Germany, has succeeded in dividing and re-dividing infusoria until sixteen perfect individuals were produced from the original subject.

The chief value of Florida lemons is the rind, which is used for making extracts.

FARM AND GARDEN

Some Blooded Horses.

America has the fastest trotting horses in the world. But in the matter of draft and heavier carriage animals, we make, probably, the poorest showing of any country except Italy. Our farmers and breeders are waking up to this defect and rapidly remedying it. They cannot do it too soon. The keep of a poor horse is just as expensive as that of a superior one. The inferior animal is a steady loss.

The most magnificent draft horses are beyond doubt the Clydesdales, from the valley of the Clyde, in Scotland. One of them will draw a load quite equal to that of two ordinary American draft horses. To the American eye they look as large as an elephant. They possess great beauty in spite of their size, and they are very docile and intelligent, having the large, soft eye of a woman. The Clydesdale horses are well known in Indiana and Illinois.

French horses appear at present to be the fancy in the United States. New York city has perhaps the finest draft horses in the country. The iron and safe men and the express companies have horses that are well worth seeing. Splendid grays and shining bays of great size and beauty are common among their teams. The animals have a large strain of Norman blood. Below is a picture of a beautiful gray stallion imported from Normandy.

GOLD SPRAY.

Much doubt arises in some minds as to whether one should say "Percheron" or Norman horse. As to that there are two breeds. The Norman is the heavy war horse of a thousand years ago, "when," as a writer in The American Agriculturist says, "an enormous weight of steel armor was borne, both by the rider and horse." Heavy horses were more needed than active ones. The Percherons come from Perche, a province south of Normandy. They are adapted for uses in which both strength and speed are required. They are strong and elastic, like steel. They trot easily ten miles an hour, and draw a stage, diligence or other heavy passenger wagon.

PERCHERON HORSE, GARDA.

The Percheron is of Arabian extraction, hence his fine qualities. The illustration shows this breed to very good advantage. The bright, spirited eye, the deep shoulder and solid, yet trim legs, are traits of a horse built both for strength and speed. The Percheron will probably be the horse most available for the American farmer.

MADERE.

Some time since, at a horse fair in France, Rosa Bonheur selected six horses for painting. One of the six was the Percheron stallion Madere, shown in the illustration above. We have thus given three illustrations of imported French stallions. The first is Gold Spray, owned at Sinclairville, N. Y. The Percheron Garda belongs on the Jewett stock farm, Aurora, N. Y. Madere is the property of M. W. Dunham, of Wayne, Ills.

A Base Swindle.

[National Live Stock Journal.]

We got mad to-day, and we honestly believe it is the duty of all the dairymen in the land to get mad with us, when they hear the simple tale that we relate, for they can verify the truth of it at any corner grocery. The highest quotations on this market for the best quality of full cream cheese is from seven to eight cents a pound. On our way home we stopped at two groceries to buy some cheese for supper, and the blarsted idiots had the impudence to charge us seventeen and eighteen cents a pound for cheese that had already been robbed of from one-third to half of its cream. Those same cheeses were probably bought at four or five cents a pound. Here was an attempt to make us pay over 200 per cent. profit. We decided to die of starvation for cheese before we would be imposed upon to such an extent.

Is there any wonder that the growth of cheese eating in this country is slow and discouraging to the dairyman? Could there be a more suicidal policy than this? Do grocery men desire to sell cheese at all? Do they not know that there is not nearly so much lost by evaporation and stealage from a cheese that is quickly eaten as there is from one that stands on the counter for days before millionaires enough come along to buy the extravagant thing all up? The papers are calling attention to the great falling off in exports this year as compared with last, so that it looks as though our cheesemakers must soon look to the home market alone for consumers; and yet this great barrier must stand in the way to prevent consumers from getting hold of a fair average cheese, even at an exorbitant price. You actually cannot get good cheese except in the largest-sized groceries, and then you must pay as though it was the last piece of cheese in the world that you are buying.

Would it not be a good thing for agricultural papers to take this subject up and call the attention of grange organizations and other associations to these facts? Let us open up this new country, as it were, for our cheese. Break through the barrier and get at the hungry cheese eaters on the other side. Beat down the groceryman. If one could buy good, wholesome, full milk cheese for ten cents that cost the groceryman seven cents every boy in the land would have a chunk of it in his satchel as he goes to school to-morrow. Babies would cry for it and mothers would get up picnics just to consume it.

Canada's Debt.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The 1st of June the government debt of Canada was $258,000,000, which is nearly $60 for every man, woman, and child in the country. The government proposes to borrow $40,000,000.

Questions Answered.

Ask the most eminent physician
Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?
And they will tell you unhesitatingly
"Some form of Hops!!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:
"What is the only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"—
"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically, "Buchu!!!"
Ask the same physicians
What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you
Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!!
Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable.
And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—The City School Board meet to-night.

—No. 3 Battery will parade at the drill shed to-night at 8 o'clock.

—The Satellite sailed for Honolulu and the south yesterday morning.

—Anti-Chinese meeting to-night at Harmony Hall.

—Father Upchurch left Portland on Sunday for his home in the east.

—The Idaho sails from this port at noon to-morrow for Alaska ports. She will start from the outer wharf.

—Dr. Morrison has purchased a house and lot on Fort street, near Quadra street, for the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars.

—Jim Harvey and another old sailor have gone 300 miles north to fish for oysters on the Alaskan coast for the Victoria market.

—News from the Big Bend is scarce. A report from Farwell says shares and claims are reported there to be changing hands at big figures.

—Visitors are coming in fast to Farwell by steamer, some for the Big Bend country, some to see the sights, and some to make what they can.

—A government post office has been established at Farwell, and mail matter is distributed from the east and west and from Spokane Falls. Mr. Stuart is postmaster.

—The Teaser arrived from the mainland at 9:30 this morning, with 59 passengers, 1400 cases of salmon and 12 tons of hay and farm produce consigned to city dealers from Chilliwhack.

—The news from Granite creek gold mines still continue to be of a cheering nature. A considerable number of miners and prospectors are already there while many more are en route.

—List of letters detained for postage: Flag Lieut. Garforth, H. M. S. Triumph, Esqt; Wo Chong, Portland, Ogn; F. A. Burns, Bich Bay, W.T.; Marchioness of Queensbury, London, England; Miss M. Dunn, Yale, B.C.

—The donations to the P. O. Home for August were: One crib quilt, from the Society of Little Helpers, Moodyville; Mr. T. Harding, bread; Mr. Andean, fruit; Mrs. Holloway and Mrs. Barnard, clothing; a friend, fish.

—A refreshing shower of rain, the first for six months, fell this morning. The only objection to it was that it did not come down heavy enough. The parched ground could drink in an amateur deluge and still feel droughty.

—It is rumored that the Attorney General is about to proceed to Farwell. His presence at the scene of action will in all probability speedily settle the hostilities. The "dogs of war" will be drawn off and the sword turned into pruning—or grabbing-hooks.

—The Ancon brought down $60,000 in gold from the great Treadwell mine on Douglas Island, the output of three weeks work. The mill was shut down about one week, otherwise the yield for the month would have been $100,000. In addition about $20,000 was on board from Cassiar and other sources.

—The accommodation for the Dominion police, at Farwell, is being largely increased. They are putting up a new jail, office and stables. This looks as if they intended to "hold the fort, for some time. Perhaps trouble is expected after the completion of the road with the large body of men of all nationalities who will be left in the district.

—The Olympian's consignees to-day: M Lenz, A McIntosh, A Cowan, G Rudge, C P Ry, A Bossi, A Ofner, J Cunningham, H Short, W Allen, Fell & Co, Brewster & Co, C Strouss, F N Noble, G B Ordano, A B Johnson, S Clay, Neufelder & Ross, M R & Tye, Marvin & T, E B Marvin, M Miller, Mrs Horsley, F Scouller, J M Gurgler, O Nichols, Turner, B & Co.

—The Whatcom Reveille in its last issue states that it "has just received a letter from the vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railroad, dated Montreal, August 18th, 1885, stating that though rails will be laid to the Pacific by Oct. 20th, the main line will not be opened for through traffic before the middle of May, as the management desire to have the line in perfect condition before commencing business."

—The Port Townsend Argus says: Word comes from Victoria that Mrs. Leadbetter, formerly of Port Angeles, died there a few days ago. Deceased was formerly the wife of a wealthy spendthrift named Vidler who settled near Angeles and spent the remains of an English fortune. After his death the widow married Mr. Leadbetter, one of the pioneer citizens there, from whom she was subsequently divorced. She had lived in Victoria for some time prior to her death.

—By some unaccountable lapsus calami, the name of Supt. "Bloomfield" was substituted for that of Supt. "Roycraft" in the provincial police court investigations into the alleged Burgh murder. It is of course well enough known that Mr. Roycraft's jurisdiction is provincial in its extent, and that the case referred to, which happened outside of Victoria, must come under his purview. The error was solely due to a slip of the pen.

—The daring and successful robbery at the Brown Jug saloon on Sunday morning, is still puzzling the victim and the police. The keys of the safe were procured in some unaccountable manner. The thieves, who are evidently adepts at the business, visited Mr. Conves' residence, and entering his bedroom while that gentleman was asleep, stole the keys from his pants pocket. An entrance to the saloon was made through a rear door, and the rest of the work was then easy. Three hundred dollars in cash was secured. No arrest has yet been made.

REMARKABLE PHENOMENA

Officer Franklin, of the customs, whose onerous duties require his individual attention at the outer wharf, occasionally witnesses some very remarkable natural phenomena, and some that are decidedly unnatural. Not long ago he enjoyed the rare privilege of being the sole spectator of a bevy of mermaids disporting themselves in a quiet and secluded bay across the harbor. By the aid of a powerful glass the lineaments of their features, and the amphibious contours of their graceful forms were plainly discernible, and not until the sounds of a passing steamer disturbed their playful gambols did the entranced official withdraw his enraptured gaze. A day or two ago the fortunate gentleman was again highly favored. About five thousand whales, driven into Royal Roads and up toward Esquimalt by an approaching San Francisco steamer, were lashing the waters of the harbor into a foam and playing leapfrog and hide-and-go-seek, to the intense delight of the spectators, five thousand, of whom, exclusive of Mr. Franklin, were witnesses of the strange occurrence. Some of these sea monsters got stranded on the beach, and the youngsters of Esquimalt were occupied for some days in gathering blubber and extracting whale oil. The spectacle is described by Mr. Franklin to have been a very remarkable one, which most readers will readily admit. Were it not for his well-known veracity, THE TIMES would be disposed to think that during his leisure hours he was a studious reader of the edifying, but unreliable, Munchausen tales. But he asserts that his remarkable stories are true, and THE TIMES believes him.

Paintin' 'er Red.

Our representative was not at Philharmonic Hall last evening, and is therefore unable to speak from personal knowledge of the merits of the performance. The Standard gives the company a very flattering notice, and awards unstinted praise to the comical characterizations and musical medleys composing the programme. The Colonist is disappointed, and says the play possesses no merit as a comedy; but admires Miss Stanley's beauty and elegant figure and heartily praises the singing of other members of the company. Now, when such eminent doctors disagree who is there to judge. The press is too prone to flatter every troupe that comes to the city, and bespatter with indiscriminate praise all companies—good, bad and indifferent. In regard to "Paintin' 'er Red," judging from the general expression of opinion that we have heard, there appears to have been many objectionable features—so much so that several ladies left the hall—but the singing and personations were on the whole of a very excellent character. The combination is a new one—if we are not mistaken it is just starting on the road—and for that reason it has scarcely got into good working order yet. The management, studying the public taste and profiting by the criticism of the press, will be able, gradually, to eliminate everything that has the slightest tinge of vulgarity, when the entertainment, as a whole, should be one of the best "cards" on the circuit. The following has been received since the above was written. The writer is reliable:

PAINTING THE TOWN GREEN.

SIR,—It is to be hoped that something more than the mere supposition of Miss Stanley being the daughter of a British officer induced the elite of Victoria to witness one of the most vulgar performances ever presented to a refined and chaste society. The dancing of the cancan could scarcely rival the voluptious contortions of some of the performers. Many American ladies withdrew from such a burlesque representation of vulgarity, and no doubt other ladies would have followed their example could they have obtained the same facilities for so doing. PATER.

Must Come Down.

Referring to an extraordinary catch of salmon in the river Tay, at Perth, Scotland, the Portland Oregonian observes that it is many years since so many were caught. At Perth the retail price is reported to be 8d and 9d per pound. Not so much higher, by the way, than the retail price in Portland. And this reminds us to say that "a bit a pound" for salmon in Portland is by much too much. It corresponds with our retail prices of beef, which are about as high here as in Boston, though cattle are carried by rail 3000 miles to the Boston market. In fact it is not unlikely that Eastern Oregon beef may be had in Boston at retail about as low as in Portland.

The Weather.

The weather during the month of August at and around Victoria, is accurately shown by the following figures: Clear days, 14; smoky and foggy, 16, with rare glimpses of a pale sun; showery, 1; total, 31. Mean temperature, 58° 20; maximum, 68° 39; minimum, 48°; rainfall 0.2 of an inch. August is another added to the comparatively dry months of this year making in all six. From the 22nd May to August 31, the rainfall has only been 0.42 of an inch. The rainfall to 31st August, 1885, has been 15.47; the rainfall to 31st August, 1884, has been 13.40; the rainfall to August, 1883, has been 13.84.

Animals at Large.

Complaints are constantly being made about animals being on the streets and vacant lots. Yesterday a young man, book-keeper in a prominent establishment, received an ugly wound from a cow which was grazing near a sidewalk in James Bay ward. The cow threw up her head as the man was passing, and her horn striking, inflicted a very severe hurt. Owners of such animals are responsible for any damages done.

Congregation of Emanuel.

The annual meeting of the Jewish congregation was held on Sunday, when the following officers were elected: Lewis Lewis, President; Isaac Oppenheimer, vice-President; Morris Moss, Secretary; H. Bornstein, Treasurer. The Jewish New Year will begin on the 9th inst., at sundown, when services will be held in the synagogue. Thursday and Friday will be observed as holidays by the Jews. The day of atonement comes on the 19th inst.

Highlanders Routed.

A London dispatch of the 6th inst., states that thirty soldiers belonging to the Highland regiment to-day made an assault upon a dozen artillerymen in a village near Plymouth. The Scotchmen were routed. The artillerymen then carried the village by storm, when the people fled to the fields. An armed picket guard subsequently captured fifteen of the rioters.

The W. C. T. U.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met last night in Temperance Hall, Mrs. McNaughton, president, in the chair. Addresses were delivered by Revds. Messrs. Banks, Dowler and Fraser and by Hon. J. Robson. Mrs. Jenkins announced that a picnic for the Band of Hope would take place on Saturday next in Temperance Hall.

Indian Curios.

Mr. Isaacs, having returned from the north with a very fine variety of rare Indian Curios, has now a stock which is well worth examining at the Indian Bazaar, Johnson street, corner Oriental alley. *

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Johnny, a half-breed, supplying liquor to a klootchman; $50 or three months.

D. M. Steves, drunk and loitering on the streets; remanded for a day.

Ma Ying, charging Ah Ling with murder for the purpose of extorting money. This old case again loomed up this morning, and wearied the court lawyers and spectators for several hours, the court having to adjourn until after lunch. The quarrel seems to be between two factories in Chinatown and is of no earthly interest to white people.

FROM THE FAR NORTH.

John Grant Esq., M. P. P., arrived at Wrangel on the 16th ult., and expected to leave on the following day for up the river.

There was nothing new of importance from the mines of Cassiar, as no one had arrived at Wrangel from the interior for some time.

New York to San Francisco.

F. B. Taylor, who has been prominently connected with the Pacific oil trade for many years, has determined to establish an independent freight line of clipper ships between New York and San Francisco, to be known as F. B. Taylor's Eureka line for San Francisco. The ship Imperial has been chartered by him, and he is negotiating for others. The Imperial is now loading at New York. Mr. Taylor proposes to take all the freight that comes along, and possibly adopt the mutual benefit plan, by allowing all California shippers to come in on a pro rata basis. His reason for starting the line is that the railroad refused to give other shippers of oil as favorable rates as those given to the Standard Oil company and the Continental Oil and Transportation company, although they were offered 1,000,000 gallons of oil as freight, and the two regular clipper lines refused to take any oil offered, on the ground that all their available room was engaged by the Standard company.

An Old Pioneer.

The late John Casper Von Allman, who died yesterday morning, was one of our much respected pioneers. He was born in Berne, Switzerland, in the year 1812, and emigrated with his parents in 1824 to Cleveland, Ohio. He was a pilot on the Mississippi River for six years, and afterwards moved to Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he married. He crossed the plains to Oregon in 1848, and held territorial places of trust such as Sheriff, Probate Judge, &c. At one time he owned a large lot of property at Portland, and near Fort Vancouver, which he sold out, and then moved to Victoria, in 1857. Purchasing the Lake Hill farm and adjoining lands, he resided at that place until a year ago, when the family moved to this city. He leaves a wife and several sons and daughters to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. He was father to Mrs. Jacob Sehl, of this city.

Sidewalk Obstruction.

The attention of the street committee is called to the obstruction on the sidewalk on Yates street, near the American Hotel. When the old buildings were pulled down by the firemen, a portion of the roof and pieces of plank and timber fell half way across the sidewalk and there they have been allowed to remain ever since. Pedestrians on dark nights smash their shins against the protruding debris, and anathematise the city and the city's officials for permitting their footwalks to remain in such a disgraceful condition. An able-bodied man would remove the obstruction in two minutes and a half.

The London Fish Market.

The premises on Yates street, recently vacated by Burns & Co., are being fitted up for the London Fish Market, of which Mr. Wm. Jensen is manager. The house and northwest market will be supplied with fresh, cured and smoked fish, caught by fishermen directly engaged by this company. The industry should prove a remunerative one, as with the opening of the railway a large and steady market will be almost brought to our doors, while the wealth of our waters is practically inexhaustible.

Gone to San Francisco.

The steamer Geo. W. Elder, which left the outer wharf at noon for San Francisco carried about a thousand tons of freight, and a large number of passengers. The following are on board from this city: T K Thomson, Dr Paton, J Austin, Poong Tay, Miss R Dewar, Miss Christian Schenk, F Cremer, C A Wells, Chas Panton, J Parey, Mrs R E Gilbert, Loo Chew Fan.

The Hibbs Case.

The full court was yesterday unanimously of opinion that Hibbs' offence, according to Canadian law, amounted to forgery. The prisoner was consequently remanded back to goal. Mr. T. Davie for prisoner, and Messrs Hett and Walls for the U. S. government.

Filigree Jewelry.

We have examined some of this work at J. Dassonville & Co.'s, Fort street, and find it really remarkable how threads of silver so fine can be spun and made to form such beautiful styles of ornaments for the ladies. An early call will secure a choice selection. *

Died at Sea.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A Point for the Liquor Dealers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—Allow me to call the attention of the liquor dealing fraternity to a fact which seems to have escaped their notice. It is that we have been told all our lives that the sober nations are in a dreadful condition morally, "unutterably vile," on a prominent total abstinence advocate recently said from the pulpit, while in nearly the same breath he urged that men with bottles of wine be sent to them to save them, and raise them to the moral level of London. Surely our friends of the flowing bowl need no better argument than this to annihilate their adversaries of the blue and white ribbon. TRUTH.

"PEMBROSE" MINE.

A New Mine Being Developed on Kitimat Inlet.

Capt. Sturt, C. E., of Nanaimo, returned by the Boscowitz, after having inspected and surveyed a ledge of quartz, containing silver and gold, discovered by Major Downie twenty-five years ago. The ledge is situated at the head of Kitimat Inlet, thirty miles south of the Skeena, and to the east of the coast range. The ledge crossed a creek, the course being in N. N. E. and S. S. W. It averages five feet in width, is exposed for about four hundred feet, and is a true fissure vein, with slate and porphery walls. An assay made some years ago gave $29 in silver and $10 in gold to the ton. Capt. Sturt brought down with him about a quarter of a ton of quartz taken indiscriminately from the surface of the ledge, which will be sent on the Empire to San Francisco for a milling assay. Major Downie accompanied the captain to Kitimat, and is now engaged in looking up other ledges in that vicinity. It is the intention of the company to run a tunnel on the ledge for the purpose of further testing it. The proximity of the mine to salt water, and the fact that an available water power crosses it in the center, should make it one of the most easily developed ledges in British Columbia, as the cost for transportation will be almost "nil." It can be worked the whole year round, supplies can be got in cheaply, and should it prove a success, as there is a very strong probability that it will, other valuable ledges will be discovered in the vicinity, as it is unquestionably a section of country very rich in minerals.

Our Nimrods.

The son of the Marquis of Queensberry, at present on H. M. S. Triumph, was escorted to Sooke hills last Sunday by Mr. Otto Weiler and several other youthful Victoria Nimrods, where a most successful deer hunt was made. The party returned with five deer, amongst which was a fine prong buck of about 130 pounds weight, killed by the unerring aim of the heir of Queensberry. The rest of the party were jubilant at their distinguished guests's good luck in bagging the prize.
